Put Cows on Alfalfa in August, not September

Glenam

News for week ending Aug. 27

Mr. and Mrs. George Whitfield, of Fessenden Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield and son David of Campbellford, visited during the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Nesbitt. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webster and girls were visitors of his brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. J. Webster, of Creswell. They were accompanied by Ruth Aspe and Marilyn Webster to their home after a holiday of two weeks at the homes of uncles and aunts, and Mrs. Fred Webster, and Mr. and Mrs. Melville Bell, of Long Point and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Webster.

Last year, farm scientists stated that putting alfalfa could be damaged by grazing in September. Now, they've come up with some pasture recommendations that will keep the cows full in September yet won't hurt your pasture.

Grazing of new seedlings as well as first and second harvest stands of alfalfa in August is the backbone of their recommendation. Then put the cows on old alfalfa fields that will soon be broken up, in September.

"Also, by fencing the cows off grass, kale, corn, oats and nuttun grass in August, you will be able to get the whole month without touching the alfalfa," says Dr. Stan Young of the O.C. Field Husbandry Department.

"Another thing that will make your grass go a longer way in August is 'strategic grazing'," he says. "By rotating up to 20 percent more cows on alfalfa than on other pastures, you can be just opening the gates and letting the cattle graze."

Don't forget about feeding hay on pasture, either. One Perth County farmer, reports Young, is expecting his cattle to eat up 500 bales of hay while they are on pasture. Hay helps level out milk production in an otherwise slow period.

THE FACTS ARE...

Some controversy has arisen in the wake of a court ruling against the builder of a house in southeast Lindsay on property owned as an industrial area.

The facts concerning this situation aren't difficult to take in, and much as we sympathize with someone who finds themselves in the position of not being able to build a house on their land, we cannot hold with an effort to defy existing municipal law.

In the case at hand, the court has ruled that the owners of the land in the southeast zone violated existing zoning and building bylaws. They will stand and built without the necessary building permit and (b) built a house in an industrial zone.

The developments which led to the court case didn't come about suddenly. They were cumulative over a lengthy period of time, beginning when a building permit was refused, and that was the time not to have defied the law but to begin working to have it changed. There may well be portions of the town's zoning bylaw which should be reviewed and perhaps adjusted but this cannot be achieved by a defiant course of action. When one is proven to have violated the law at any level the court has no alternative but to find in favor of the law.

People who own land in an industrial zone and wish to develop it for residential purposes would probably receive a public sympathy, particularly if the industrially zoned area was not developing along intended lines.

FOR THEIR INTENDED USE

Land, especially small imported cars, have been given a fair amount of publicity in the news lately, some of it adverse.

There can have filled a need which was long felt in Canada among the people who couldn't see their way clear to either buy or operate a larger vehicle. They had an appeal which drew popular, perhaps unthinking, and the greatest expectations of either their manufacturers or the distributors and, judging by the increasing number seen daily on the road, the appeal is not lessening. They may be part of the much-miscue traffic congestion and, if more widely adopted, would be a step towards reducing wear and tear of our highways brought about by heavy trucks.

The smaller car is, generally speaking, well engineered and designed to do those things within their intended scope. They were never meant to be driven at high speeds even though they are capable of attaining them. Their construction is not such that they should be driven at speeds far in excess of their intended performance very well and can be handled with relative ease.

In this district, this summer, it has been many a time that the failure of a small car to handle a larger one has resulted in a smaller type car. There have, it is true, been numerous accidents involving both small type vehicles and the larger ones. The smaller type car, however, is probably found to be more due to driver failure than to mechanical failure. As a leading safety official once observed, "You can't make a car together but you can't make a driver together." Everyone who drives is liable to become involved in an accident but the risk is taken in times greater than the individual makes no effort to understand and respect the capabilities of the vehicle being operated.

BURNING BLOW

This is the time of year when most people begin lawns and garden cleaning with perhaps a little orange or back shed cleaning thrown in. The outcome of these things is a much larger amount of burning material than a heap of rubbish which has to be disposed of in some way. People who choose to burn it and at times which grow greatly annoying to their neighbours such as when they have just hung out the wash and so forth.

There has been a feeling around for some time that there is a need for a bylaw covering such things which would perhaps establish hours during which refuse could be burned and otherwise regulate these burning activities to a minimum of inconvenience and hazard.

Each fall we have a situation to contend with in Lindsay which hardly seems to be in keeping with modern times. It is a good practice in other respects. Reference is made to the great leaf-sucking machine which always seems extremely wasteful quite apart from the standpoint of economy. Many centres have these great rollers and rollers and rollers. What these were used for doing that in Lindsay' rather than destroying nature's own fertilizing agent.

Perhaps the council could make a law which would be considered if the subject of a burning law for the town matches the discussion stage in council.

Matters of Interest

NOT EXCLUSIVE

THE most serious question before the historic September 1 issue, "is how to reconcile the modern Christian faith with the Christian faith of the past."

The Observer to suggest what young men ought to preach today, said: "Those who have not the spirit of Christ are those who have not the spirit of Christ."

The fact that those who have come to know Jesus, Buddha and Mullins find they have the spirit of Christ, forces us to ask ourselves, "What is the spirit of Christ?" continues the editorial, and quotes Professor Wilfred C.

No floats on the car

When Anthony Demark, 15, Church Crescent, Lindsay, started to back his boat, trailer into Sturgeon Lake at Long Beach, he didn't figure on the car going as broken like the car.

At last week, within the past few days, the Lindsay police department has received calls from people who claim they saw something resembling an alligator or a crocodile in the Cooey River within the lower limits.

The first time police answered the call, it was to the Rainbow bridge where a group of young boys claimed that an alligator wrapped itself around one of the bridge's piers and then floated off on down the river.

However, "Puck" reporter overheard a conversation in a Lindsay grocery store about the police report, and then said that someone had turned loose an alligator in the river near the rainbow bridge, as a prank.

Since that time, the two calls have been received at the police station.

"The Post" would appreciate any further contributions any of its readers may have on this matter.

Perhaps Lindsay has a potential here of a budding new tourist attraction. And then perhaps this potential will end with the coming of Winter.

It should be pointed out that the alligator is not as feared as it is portrayed in the popular press, as being confined to a warmer climate, but no proof that it can survive a Canadian winter is available.

Buying a boar this fall?

In an attempt to produce better quality hog carcasses the Federal Government will initiate on October 3 its new premium policy on hog carcasses, whereby a premium of $3 will be paid for a Grade A hog carcass, and nothing on a Grade B.

One way to improve carcass quality in a long range program is to buy a top-quality boar. If you are buying a boar this fall, you might keep the following in mind.

Pick a boar that will improve some of the sow's physical weaknesses. Pick a boar from breeding stock with a good Advanced Registry Policy list.

Give reference to boars with disease-free history. These guides are something you might keep in mind the next time you look around for a boar. You'll improve your chances of being picking a good one.

What physical weakness should you look for? Garnett suggests paying special attention to "weak bones in the feet and legs, poor type piglet at birth, light weaning weights, slow growth, and sow's that are fat-runners."

Now let's take a sow herd with a few weaknesses and show around for a boar. Good test on Advanced Registry. What does that mean? It's a pig testing policy whereby 4 pigs from a litter are fed together to market weight and then slaughtered. Growth, carcass data and feed efficiency information are then made available to you. If you sell or buy pigs, this information will have some effect on the final price. The best boars to buy are the ones that have had litter mates do exceptionally well on test. Litter mates that did well on feed efficiency, maturation rate and carcass score. Anything above 85% is considered a good A. P. score.

"First ask" the owner to show you the A. R. report of the pig's litter mates or of the sow," suggests Norrish. Look for average carcass score, age at slaughter, and amount of feed required.

Prices? It varies, of course. Another point to keep in mind is age: buy a boar when it is 5-7 months and over 200 pounds. Lighter pigs, such as weaners or 3 month olds, may not develop well.

Finally, don't depend on 1 boar upgrading your herd. Swine researcher Norrish suggests: keep using good testing

Last bowling tournament of the season held

Cannington (PNS) The winners were Mr. and Mrs. Wattie of Stouffville.

High two game winners were Mr. and Mrs. Art Cox, of Port Perry. High one game winners were Mrs. Colman and Mr. Wm. Gardiner of Lindsay.

A beautiful supper consisting of cold meat and hot vegetables with plenty of delicious pies was served by the ladies.

The high three game winners from the local club: Mrs. Christine Deverell and Mr. C. Wright, with a score of 54 points.

Second high three game winners were Mr. and Mrs. Wattie of Stouffville.

"In one case, high testing boars were used continuously. The first generation graded 81% A. In another case, low scoring boars were used in succession and the percentage of Grade A hogs fell off rapidly."

Prices? It varies, of course. Another point to keep in mind is age: buy a boar when it is 5-7 months and over 200 pounds. Lighter pigs, such as weaners or 3 month olds, may not develop well.

This Day

By United Press International

Tuesday is Wednesday, September 14th, the 258th day of the year, with 108 more to follow in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Mars. The evening star is Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

In 1741 composer George Frederick Handel finished the Messiah after working without interruption for 23 days.

1778, Benjamin Franklin sent a treaty to France to negotiate a treaty to end the American revolutionary war.

In 1884, American troops occupied Mexico City in the name of the U. S. and Mexico.

In 1901, President William McKinley died in Buffalo, New York, from wounds he received eight days earlier at the hands of an anarchist.

In 1921, after knocking Jack Dempsey in the first round, Luis Firpo was defeated by Dempsey in the second round of a bout in New York's Polo Grounds.

How to recognize the new VW

First of all, there's 10% more power to play with. Now the Volkswagen engine from front light increased torque means more reserve power in every gear for better passing. But although the engine's stepped-up to 40 horsepower, it's still as easy on the gas as ever. And there's the synchronized first gear. You no longer have to stop the car to shift down in first. From second gear, you can shift down smoothly into first—and who else. And all the gear ratios have been changed to take advantage of the new engine's performance.

The luggage space is bigger. There's now a new fabric seat. A full 11 up front and another 3 behind the back seat. Now you can store all your shopping bags upright under the hood. Or take a family vacation with all your luggage neatly packed away.

The Volkswagen is constantly being improved. Unless you drive the new Volkswagen for these what to look for you can't tell it from last year's model. Or the one before that. Or the one before that. In fact, since 1949 no less than nine hundred improvements have been made to this remarkable car and it still remains basically the same. That's why the VW retains its value. The Volkswagen is in lowest position. While there are other improvements in the new VW, it's Volkswagen's reputation for not changing for the sake of change but to search continually for new ways to improve a great thing.

Some of these improvements in the De Luxe Volkswagen are also in the Cabriolet model. Whichever you buy, we think you get the best car value in the world. Here's a tip: ask in any about the new VW why you get a first hand at the Volkswagen dealer's tonight!

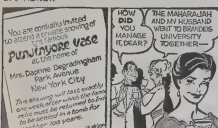

Trade between nations is a two-way street. Every Volkswagen sold in this country helps West Germany, one of Canada's best customers, help Canada prosper.

Queen St. Evening Auxiliary to cater to Father and Son banquet

Miss Elsie Stubblings was hostess to the members of the Queen St. Evening Auxiliary full rummage sale. All members were asked to save their rummage and the better articles of used clothing will be put in the bale of which Mrs. J. Miglee will be in charge.

The president, Mrs. Lloyd Thurston welcomed the 18 members present after which Group Leader, Verna Davis led in prayer.

Several items of business were discussed among which was the forthcoming Father and Son banquet to be held in the church when the members will be entering for this event. The menu was planned and committees chosen. Verna Davis volunteered to convene the kitchen.

Mr. Haden consented to act as treasurer for the remainder of the year to replace Hazel Haden who had resigned.

Suggestion were made regarding the making of the choir gowns for the junior choir, the material has been purchased for these gowns. It was decided to appoint a committee at the next meeting to choose a pattern and have the gowns completed shortly.

The "Upper Room" subscribers at the first of the year instead of monthly.

Following the completion of a few other matters, the meeting closed after which the hostess was assisted in serving a dainty lunch by Miss Ekins and June Thurston.

ELECTRA CRASHES INTO WATERFRONT DIKE
An American Airlines Electra crashed into a waterfront dike during a landing at New York City's LaGuardia Airport today. It flipped over and caught fire, but officials said none of the 73 persons aboard suffered major injury. Impact splintered the plane and fire destroyed the wreckage within minutes. But 71 passengers and five crewmen walked out alive. It was the fourth major crash involving an Electra in passenger service.

BELIEVED TO HAVE KILLED ONE CREW
An aerial collision between two U.S. Air Force B-47 bombers some 300 miles off the Irish coast is believed to have killed the crew of one of the planes. The other—scattered by a third plane—dumped its contents. The other plane, with one engine dangling from a wing. The other planes in the crash apparently went down in the rough waters of the Atlantic. The collision occurred early today in fog, but the crew of the surviving bomber has refused to discuss the accident until an investigating team arrives.

TO TRY TO RECOVER THIRD CAPSULE
The U.S. will try to recover its third straight capsule from an orbiting discoverer satellite today. Scientists plan to attempt to catch the instrument-laden capsule near Hawaii. PREPARE PARK AVENUE MANSION FOR KRUSHCHEV

A five-story Park Avenue mansion is being prepared for Soviet Premier Khrushchev's New York City. He will stay in the building during his visit to the U.S. next week... bearing a U.S. change of mind on limiting him to Manhattan Island. U.S. Secretary of State Herter is expected to reaffirm the U.S. travel ban at a Washington News conference today.

SOVIET OFFICER TO TESTIFY
A Soviet military officer who recently defected to the West will testify at a public hearing of the House Committee on UN-American activities today. The unnamed Russian is expected to reveal Soviet espionage secrets. A House armed services subcommittee will begin hearing tomorrow on the defection of two U.S. code clerks to Russia.

WILL BAR SO CALLED ENEMIES
East German Communist officials have warned they will bar all so-called "enemies" from West Berlin in the latest Soviet squeeze on the isolated Western outpost. The Russians have given the East German Reds the green light to interfere with anything moving on the highways through East Germany except allied military traffic. The contrived "crisis" apparently has been timed to coincide with Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit to the United Nations.

"SEADRAGON" TO DOCK AT PEARL HARBOR
The U.S. Atomic submarine, "Seadrage," will dock at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii this morning... completing a transit of the icy Northwest passage. The ship's skipper probably will be given the Legion of Merit for taking the ship through previously unexplored Pary Channel and the Canadian Archipelago. The voyage from Portsmouth, New Hampshire took 45 days.

BEGIN WEEK-LONG CONFERENCE
Lawyers from the 10 Commonwealth nations began a week-long conference in Ottawa today to discuss vital legal issues facing their professions. Discussions are expected to range from human rights and the problems of Federalism to the transfer of lawyers within the Commonwealth and matrimonial property laws. "DONNA" CAUSES ONE DEATH
Hurricane Donna was easier on Canada and the Maritime Provinces in particular than expected as the Atlantic Provinces escaped serious damage. One death was reported—45-year-old Patrick Krowles, who was believed drowned after his wrecked fishing smack was found abandoned at a waterfront pier in Pictou, Nova Scotia.

Editorial

"SPARE WHEEL WITH A FULL-TIME JOB" is a phrase of interest in promoting a safer motor vehicle would find some of a practical nature in the current Woodstock Magazine, a viewpoint in the current Canadian newspapers at the weekend.

The picture-story referred to in on page 26 and 27 is a picture-story in editorial. Text of the article is as follows: "That spare wheel may play a dual role if a French engineer can invent auto-motive manufacturers will be able to use it as a spare wheel — with about four inches protruding — as a safety device. Jacques Grier, of Roulogne-Blaizacourt, has his idea for a spare wheel, thus acting as a shock absorber and deviation gear. The wheel can be readily changed into a spare wheel. In tests, Grier crashed a car equipped with the protruding tire into a stationary vehicle at 35 m.p.h. The protruding wheel was the car to ride — as it did the car hit a cement pole at 35 m.p.h. He says the device can be installed in cars with front or rear-engine mountings, at a cost of only about $100."

Although our country now has one of the most advanced and one which should be readily accepted by the automobile industry if it is sincere in reducing the damage caused by two-wheeled vehicles, the protruding head-on type which are often most devastating to vehicles and occupants. This, coupled with a sensible use of the car to ride — as it did the car hit a cement pole at 35 m.p.h. He says the device can be installed in cars with front or rear-engine mountings, at a cost of only about $100."

More than two and fine-sounding platitudes are being used to present a picture of a present desirable highway traffic record of this and other North American countries.

THE PRINCIPAL AND CHAIRMAN

MAIN POINTS Both the principal of the LCI and the chairman of the Victoria County High School Area Board have made good use of the time they spent at the LCI in the student body of the Lindsay College Institute.

The principal has proclaimed as false the doctrine which has been spread by the "square" in the world today. In this he is correct because in the world today the "square" is the one who is not preparing himself to cope with the complexities of modern living. The "square" is the one who is not preparing himself to cope with the complexities of modern living. The "square" is the one who is not preparing himself to cope with the complexities of modern living.

HSA chairman Thomson, in urging students to aim high, didn't mean that they should strive for ridiculous goals. He was emphasizing the need for setting sights high to ensure they felt a sense of achievement on the year's work. He was emphasizing the need for setting sights high to ensure they felt a sense of achievement on the year's work. He was emphasizing the need for setting sights high to ensure they felt a sense of achievement on the year's work.

We often hear young people complain that they didn't learn what they didn't like their work but so far, only one successful remedy has been found for this type of dissatisfaction: personal application, with emphasis on looking for a rewarding feature of a situation rather than a constant effort to please. Life seems to demand a constant effort to look for the best in all things if it is to be an enriching experience.

There Seems To Be Some Misunderstanding

There seems to be some misunderstanding among residents in an area such as Lindsay which has a planning by-law which sets up zones of various types—industrial, residential, commercial and so on. It is not surprising that out that when a planning board passes a plan of a town to the council, it is subject to change and revision before the plan is adopted and afterwards.

An example of the most recent incident which reflected some of this misunderstanding is the "Gill case" in which the builder of a home in an industrial area, apparently under a planning by-law, was ordered to demolish and rebuild the house and to erect a new house, and contrary to existing building by-law, gave some indication of intent to do the existing planning by-law which situated the area in which the house was being built as "industrial."

This case has made it clear that these zones are subject to revision. It is not surprising that out that when a planning board passes a plan of a town to the council, it is subject to change and revision before the plan is adopted and afterwards.

It is really the final authority in approving a planning by-law at the local level, against the recommendation of the planning board and the council's endorsement. It has the right to apply to the Ontario planning authorities for a revision of an adopted plan.

It is unfortunate that the Gill case was not presented to council before revision to the promotion stage of the case which could have resulted in a resolution of the problem without embarrassment of needless trouble. The problem should have been presented to council before drafting a nail.

STRANGE ACCIDENTS

To most of our members the green gun is perhaps the most interesting of all their gear equipment and use. It is strangely enough, this instrument has become an essential hazard for mechanics.

The fact that the green gun forces a fine stream of lubrication through very small openings under heavy pressure does an excellent job of lubricating motor vehicles. It is a very simple device, and it can also be used to clean and fix the tissue spaces with grease. Although the point of entry is small, the damage to the tissue might be very extensive. The green gun is a very simple device, and it can also be used to clean and fix the tissue spaces with grease. Although the point of entry is small, the damage to the tissue might be very extensive.

The injured area is deprived of blood. It is irritated by the grease and there is a danger of infection. The grease is removed quickly, there is less likelihood of irritation and scarring.

It is advisable that the affected person be treated by a doctor immediately he becomes aware of his injury. The green gun would appear that the type of injury described above not only applies to grease guns, but can also be caused by a jet of oil in the jet stream carburetor of diesel engine.

Although our country now has one of the most advanced and one which should be readily accepted by the automobile industry if it is sincere in reducing the damage caused by two-wheeled vehicles, the protruding head-on type which are often most devastating to vehicles and occupants. THE "BUG BOMB" THAT CRASHED AN INDUSTRY

A female mosquito, a safe refrigerant gas to test as a propellant, and two men, were responsible for one of the revolutions of the packaging industry, the push-button aerosol.

During World War II soldiers stationed in the Pacific and North Africa were troubled with one enemy which could not be routed by gunfire or strategy, the female mosquito. Spraying malaria was her specialty, and in the early days of the war the accused for more casualties in the tropics than enemy bullets.

However, due to the extensive efforts of two men attached to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and to the existence of a ready-made propellant gas, early in 1943 the "bug bomb" was ready to make its debut in "Pre-mo" gas released under pressure in a fine aerosol mist. These early aerosols were called "bug bombs" on display in stores. Encased in a one-pound cylinder of steel the first "bug bombs" were made available to the public in 1945. But it was evident that the heavy cumbersome military aerosol container would have to be replaced by a smaller and less costly package if a new place in the civilian market.

One of the first containers to be adapted to the new aerosols was the beer can. The first beer can was made by adapting these new aerosols to the new insecticides. They soon became the standard for the aerosol package because a home spray can of any type were investigated and all types of aerosols began to invade the marketplace. Deodorants, paints, plastic cleansers, cosmetics and many more.

The new convenient package which required only a pump action to give rise to a new product in the spray. These days most mothers are so busy they get along without this convenient grooming aid. Well, if it had, it might be that packy mum who might still be searching for an answer.

Today the aerosol industry has made up of many different businesses: those who design the containers, those who load them and those who merchandise them. Each day's self-service stores, often the container is the only sales item in a store.

Next time you walk to a store, notice the display of aerosols. They are deodorants, lotions, and materials, notice the improvement from the old can of aerosol deodorant to the next cluster displays of aerosols. It's a big thing - Pakogedgerge

Ops leader says lawyer not advised

Petitioners who appealed Lindsay's annexation grant that he is going to give up with confidence.

In spite of a press report that the appeal has been turned down, Mr. B. Bakogedgerge, a spokesman for the annexation group, says their efforts are being continued. "We're not discouraged but not received word confirming the news announcement."

"I shocked with him this afternoon," says Mr. Bakogedgerge, "and he has no official confirmation of the appeal has been turned down. Until he receives this, the announcement doesn't mean a thing."

Asked if there will be a repeat if the result is confirmed, Mr. Bakogedgerge said, "more than likely. We're going to keep on fighting. We don't figure Lindsay will let Lindsay can keep after itself."

About ninety Ops township residents are petitioning to appeal the grant of £150 acre to Lindsay.

It was announced Friday in a press report that an Ontario Cabinet meeting had turned down the appeal. The comment from acting Lindsay Town Solicitor Joe. Staples, like that of Mr. Bakogedgerge, was that he has not been seen in the papers.

"I fact that he doesn't say anything to those who are often called to check reports of shooting on farms, in the area."

Noticed along the way

THAT

The director of the Color Research Institute in Chicago has stirred up a bit of controversy as a result of his remarks to the effect that Americans are turning to smaller cars because of guilt feelings.

He blamed the Russians for giving them the guilt complex by jumping on them with a Sputnik. A Lindsay operator of a small car says he can't see the director at all because Sputniks, guilt complex, etc. have nothing to do with the fact that he drives a small car. "It's all a matter of the mind," he declared. "I like the idea of a small car. It's been 40 and 45 miles to the gallon of gas, the ease with which the car goes through traffic, and so on. Particularly do I like the fact that it's cheaper to buy, in fact about all I can afford."

He foresees the day when nearly everyone would drive a small car for dollars and cents running on it makes good sense to save money," he stated. Reminiscing about his own days when he drove a lumbering gas guzzler and paid about five dollars a week for gas, he said, "I like the idea of a ride—a thing like for about a dozen miles a gallon of gas."

He, too, director following, "I don't see how it can be done at all—they just naturally like to save money and they like to feel guilty about it at all."

There won't be any "Citizens' Day" at this year's Lindsay Central Exhibition. The exhibition has declared a "Citizens' Day" for Thursday, Sept. 15, and another day for the fair and more.

It is reliably reported that Lindsay's newest public school, Parkview, will officially open during Education Week and is scheduled to be observed only on September 14.

Visitor from India

Victoria County had an interesting visitor from Bombay, India, this week in Rask B. Patel who stopped off for a week on his way to the University of Saskatchewan where he will study animal nutrition for a year on a Canadian government scholarship. A strict vegetarian, Rask holds a three-week-old clerk during a visit to the Sherman Moore poultry farm just north of Lindsay.

On the left to Mr. Moore and on the right, holding a rather click, is Mr. Graham, one of two farmers with whom Mr. Patel is staying during his visit. He also stopped with Harold Beattie. He was invited to visit the county by Harry Brown, agriculture representative, who met him during his recent visit to Scotland.

Report new Canadians are intensifying old problem

New Canadians are reported to be intensifying an old problem among farmers in the district. The principal cause is the fact that many of the newcomers are not familiar with the local farming conditions.

Hardly a day and seldom a weekend goes by but police or forestry officers in the area get calls from farmers to say that someone is shooting up the place.

Farmers fear that their own safety and that of their livestock, say nothing of their crops, is being threatened. The newcomers are not familiar with the local farming conditions and are often called to check reports of shooting on farms, in the area.

Principals' Association.

Principal Ferguson has developed school holidays to observe it. Last year when Lindsay's council was approached to declare "Citizens' Day" there was a troublesome because business people didn't wish to close their stores on Wednesday and Thursday afternoon. The fair's management says that it is cheaper to buy, in fact about all I can afford.

Once owned industrial land here, Goodrich building at Kitchener

An announcement by B. F. Goodrich Co. that it is planning to build a new multi-million dollar plant will be built in Kitchener, pending negotiations with the township of Lindsay as to the purchase of a better plot than the one now owned by the Goodrich Company.

The B. F. Goodrich Company owned about forty acres of industrial property in Lindsay up until a few years ago.

After owning the land for several years without any further development, the town council at that time decided to buy the property back rather than let it sit useless.

The light is one of those authorized earlier this summer for the park.

3 young men from "down under" visit Lindsay briefly on tour

Three young men from "down under" were visiting in Lindsay Friday as the guests of Leroy G. Brown, of the Department of Agriculture.

They are Bruce McClelland, of North Caithery, New Zealand, Tony Georgi, North Australia, and John Mortimer of Caithery, New South Wales.

The three young men were sheep farmers, while the Australian told "The Post" he was a dairy farmer.

They are stopping in Canada on route back from England in connection with Junior Farmer's work. They are also keenly interested in farming and agriculture in this country.

The ambassadors of agriculture explained that in both their countries, agriculture is the prime industry.

Mr. Mortimer found dairy farming in Australia very similar in both England and Ontario. He said it operated on the same scale and faced the same problem.

The two New Zealand sheep farmers, Mr. McClelland and Mr. Georgi, while interested in all phases of farming said that there was no comparison in the sheep farming line. Over there, they said, it is done almost on a ranch scale, with the average farm about 800 to a thousand acres.

Agricultural products are the chief exports of both South Pacific nations and all three agreed that greater trade with Canada would be advantageous to their countries.

Buckhorn carries record of oats

If your last oat crop was covered with rust, you should check your fence line and woodlots for European Buckhorn. According to the Field Crops Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, European or Common Buckhorn can greatly increase grain rust on your farm because it carries a disease known as leaf or stripe rust. To make matters worse, different types of leaf rust cross on the buckhorn, producing new types capable of infecting even the most rust-resistant varieties of oats. If buckhorn could be eradicated, leaf rust would be much less of a problem.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture recognizes that fact and provides grants to counties which organize Buckhorn control campaigns.

Buckhorn will grow 6 to 18 feet high. It has oval, shiny, dark green leaves with veins showing run along the length of the leaf rather than out to the sides. At the tip of the stems are short, blunt bristles. Small, greenish flowers are followed by black, bitter-tasting berries in the fall.

Fortunately, Buckhorn can be destroyed by chemical weed killers. Brunkul Chemicals 2,4-D, 2,4,5-T, and 2,4,5-T, are the most common. According to the manufacturer's directions, give excellent results. For further details, read the label on the weed killer you buy and refer to Ontario Department of Agriculture Circular 750—"Your guide to Chemical Control of Weeds and Grasses," available from the County Agricultural Representative or Information Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario.

GOOD FOOD IS IMPORTANT FOR YOUNG AND OLD

Good food is important for everybody, young and old. One of the important factors which influence health is our nutritional condition and this depends primarily, on the food we eat.

It is particularly important that children get good food for their growth and health and if they develop good food habits they will usually be continued in later years.

Good food for adults promotes working efficiency and better health; as people grow older good food helps them retain physical and mental vigor.

The diet of an expectant mother is of the utmost importance both for her own health and the unborn child. Mothers-to-be are urged to follow their doctor's advice on what foods to eat from the earliest months of their pregnancy.

As a handy and reliable guide to preparing meals which are nutritious and wholesome every housewife ought to have a copy of Canada's Food Guide. The suggested food content, everything which is needed for a balanced diet. Briefly, Canada's Food Guide recommends half a pint of milk every day for adults, more for children. A glass of fruit juice and one serving of fruit, one helping of potatoes along with two other vegetables should be eaten every day.

In addition to these foods whole grain cereal, buttered bread, and at least one serving of meat or fish or poultry, eggs and cheese, ought to be included in the diet of each day.

Expectant mothers and all growing youngsters should take 400 units of Vitamin D every day also.

The Ontario Department of Health has established a nutrition program carried out by a full-time nutritionalist. This important service provides the latest position information for all public health services in the province, particularly to public health nurses who are especially concerned in the work with food problems.

The Department of Health has several publications on nutrition which are available free to readers. Copies of these may be obtained by writing to the Division of Health Information, Ontario Department of Health, Queen's Park, Toronto.

HOME-BAKED FRENCH BREAD

These busy fall days when the kitchen is more than usually the centre of the household, why not treat the family to their favorite home-baked bread? Nothing could be simpler — or more appreciated — or spread of lunch more than a crisp French roll thickly coated with butter.

FRENCH BREAD
1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 package fast rising dry yeast, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons shortening, 4 cups "or sifted" all purpose flour.

GLAZE
1 egg, 1 tablespoon water. Add cold water to desired color. Measure out ½ cup and divide 1 teaspoon sugar in it. Sprinkle yeast on top and let stand 10 minutes. Then stir. Add remaining sugar, salt and shortening to remaining 1½ cups liquid. Measure 2 cups of flour into large bowl. Add warm milk mixture and stir. Knead yeast all purpose flour with large spoon and beat for

3 minutes. Cover and let rise in a warm place for 30 minutes. Stir down and add remaining flour. Mix for 15 minutes. Turn out on floured board. Knead until springy. Place in a greased bowl; cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). Punch down; divide into two; round up; cover with greased wax paper and let rise 15 minutes. Shape into two long loaves, tapering the ends. Make 3 or four inch deep diagonal slashes in loaves with sharp knife. Brush loaves with cold water. Let rise without covering until double (30-45 minutes). Brush again with cold water. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., for 20 minutes. Then brush with egg white glaze. Bake 25 minutes longer. Cool the loaves in a draught near an open window to ensure a crisp crusty crust.

Ask these questions when you're buying a truck:

What's the best size for a truck? A truck should do as big as the job has to do. Any bigger and delivery costs skyrocket. The Volkswagen truck didn't waste an inch or an ounce on useless space. It carries a full 170 cubic feet of load and has no other perfect weight-to-payload ratio.

What's the most economical truck to buy? The one that delivers the most goods for the lowest cost. Volkswagen's delivery van has a far greater capacity than a standard light truck yet it costs much less to run. No other truck can do this.

Which truck is easiest to load? The truck that's got doors—Volkswagen. The VW's are the only trucks with side and rear doors to unload equipment. You can walk right through the double side doors from the curbs or load or unload through the rear door. Delivery time is cut down.

What's the best "engineered" truck? The one with the most versatile design. The Volkswagen delivery van has an efficient, all-weather enclosed body that provides extra strength without excess weight. The air cooled engine makes maximum use of horsepower and torque. It weighs only 195 lbs. Weight is evenly distributed throughout the truck. The driver's seat, the engine is in the rear and the load when it's loaded is loaded between the axles.

Which truck has the best Service Plan? Volkswagen has the VW Service Plan. You get 4 months, or 6,000 miles, parts and labour warranty. You also get a service book that starts you off with the free information and tips available for preventive maintenance on a planned basis for the life of the vehicle.

Speaking of mayors, an employer of Lindsay has been in the thick of things on the judge's stand for the horse racing events at Lindsay Central Exhibition. He is Charlie Lamb, now with the Ontario Racing Commission (harness section) and he says he enjoys every minute of these events.

Fred Workman of Toronto was in Lindsay on Friday and although he is a decorator by trade, he says he didn't paint the town red. The reason? Fred's retired now. An old Oakwood boy, he has an interesting story to tell and his will be coming along later.

The underground, not the underworld was in the news at the Lindsay Central Exhibition. Ken Kennedy of the radio-v, appliance firm bearing his name and his wife, time director of the fair, has put the communications wire from the judging stand in the front of the grandstand to the various harness underground.

"We're improving things all the time," Earl observed.

A new kind — at least to Lindsay people — of an "army" of men appeared at the fair this year. "The Transition Army," a religious move, the following concentration on big city revenue.

There's a display card in the Hamilton-Northern plan and electric organ which has a special appeal. Accompanying a picture of a beautiful woman, the following words: "You that stands on the threshold role in life."

Pony Class Winner from Malton

Proud Susan Black of Malton shows her pony and driving outfit to advantage in this picture taken just after she had been declared the winner of the "violet harness pony class" open to children under 14 years and their ponies. Susan has been showing for four years and driving for three.

It did for the Cisco Kid

Sometimes success follows art work for movie scenes, on the heels of what at first seems failure. Such was the case with this mediocre success. He wanted to be part of the industry and direct his own pictures and he did—three of them, before he lost a lot of money and he put it, "had to go to work."

It was a natural sequence of events that led him to perform in the field in which he failed financially as a producer and actor. He was in the silent picture production "Bridge of San Luis Rey" and later played for. He was in the silent picture production "Bridge of San Luis Rey" and later played for.

LIVESTOCK SHOW OVERFLOWS BARN, PRESIDENT OF COWBONES FUTURE PLAN

One big stock barn in the planning stage

Lindsay Central Exhibition, says them.

President James Butler says the livestock show at this year's fair was so large that "there had to be used an extra accommodation. Asked if the board was anticipating a continued increase in livestock entries, Mr. Butler replied: "Yes."

Mr. Butler went on to say that rather than erect more units to handle the increase, the fair board is planning to make do with the present facilities for awhile.

Our long distance plans include a new barn - one building to replace all present livestock barns," he said. He made it clear that this project was only in the planning stage, but that the board is fully aware that such a step would have to be taken eventually.

Comments from many of our livestock exhibitors are very favorable," he said. "Many have requested additional space for next year's show."

Some exhibitors who come from hundreds of miles," he continued, "have said that the fair would be a wide variety of fair interest."

Mr. Butler attributed this year's record-breaking crowds and entries to this variety, as well as the excellent weather. He also complimented manager Wilson and his committee for the way in which the grand stand was handled.

Charged with leaving scene, leaving in jail

Lindsay Police say a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident has been laid against John Duffley of Peterborough, aged 20. A car owned by Douglas Blodgett of Peterborough was damaged to an extent estimated at $25.00 while parked on Kent Street Saturday night. The license number of the moving vehicle was obtained. On Sunday, Constable Dawson proceeded to the county jail in Whitby where he questioned Duffley who was found guilty of the offence. He was fined $100.00 and costs of the Whistler district.

It didn't rain, Cisco credits his patron saint - St. Jude

The Cisco Kid's patron saint didn't let him down when he came to Lindsay Central Exhibition this year.

During Cisco's tour of the town on Friday morning, some one observed that it looked like rain.

Overhearing the remark, Cisco said there was nothing to worry about - "It won't rain," he declared. "I never does whenever I attend these shows . . . My patron saint, St. Jude - takes care of that for me. It never rains while I have left."

In an aside afterwards, Cisco explained: "I do a lot of kidding about St. Jude but seriously there seems to be something to it."

It didn't rain that day, nor the next - not until late Sunday afternoon did a few drops fall and not until Sunday/midnight did it rain in earnest.

Inquest ordered

PORT PERRY MAN DIES IN WRECK, PREGNANT WIFE CRITICALLY HURT

An inquest is to be held into the traffic death of 26-year-old John Ivan Moore of Port Perry.

Mr. Moore died following a collision between his car and a livestock truck on highway 35 south of Lindsay Friday night. His young pregnant wife, is still reported in critical condition in Ross Memorial Hospital.

Another couple in the car, Mr. and Mrs. William McKee of R. R. 1, Port Perry, were both treated as outpatients.

Provincial Police in Lindsay say the Moore car came into collision with a truck carrying livestock driven by Vera Mulligan of Bethany. Mr. Mulligan was discharged from hospital Sunday. Two other passengers in Mr. Mulligan's truck escaped without injury.

Police said the car was north-bound, possibly on the way to Lindsay fair, and the truck was returning with a load of livestock from the Lindsay sales barn when they side-swiped each other on a curve about four miles south of Lindsay. The car was almost totally wrecked and wound up in the east ditch, turning over on its side. Several animals were thrown out by the impact and one horse had to be disposed of. Constable Ian Delmer of Lindsay OPP detachment was the investigating officer.

YOUNG MARRIED WOMAN GETS SIX MONTHS FOR ITS THEFT

Two young women who had with it, Betty Aiseman, admitted taking the car, then driving to Toronto to pick up her car. Betty Aiseman, 20, of Toronto, and formerly of Cambridge, were arrested by Provincial Police in St. Catharines and charged with the theft of a 1960 Ford Mustang. The car was reported missing from OPP at Port Perry on Friday.

Both girls were charged with car theft. Betty Aiseman pleaded guilty and Patricia Kelly pleaded not guilty.

Gordon Abbey of Bevelly testified that he left his car parked behind a hotel and when he came out it was gone. He admitted that he had left his keys in it.

The car was reported missing to provincial police in Fenelon Falls who put out a province-wide alert for the vehicle on Wednesday, Sept. 22nd. It was reported found on Friday by provincial police.

TV westerns kill more people than populated West - Cisco

For his closing show on Friday night, Duncan Renaldo the Cisco Kid made some very pointed and thought-provoking statements to his children and adults.

"I say this very sincerely," he said, "I've been on the fair, but now I've never enjoyed anything as much as I've enjoyed this Lindsay Fair."

Mr. Renaldo continued: "You know, there are a lot of so-called adult westerns on TV these days, and I personally think that many of them have gone nuts. These western shows have killed more people than have populated the West," he said. "It's a shame that kids grew up on the wrong ideas about the Cisco Kid explained to the children that it was a dangerous weapon and should only be pointed for only one reason, and

You, too, can be a conservationist

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests says it is fully aware of the fact that veteran hunters are always keen conservationists. They do not allow any careless act on their part to cause a fire. All their ranges are as distinguished and no careless act with a match or cigarette is permitted. "You, too, can be a conservationist by being careful with matches in the woods," the department says in a hunting season communique.

Still to be remembered will be 1960's fair as a great success, the old friends you met on the grounds, those games on the midway which you thought looked easy, and the frantic search for a lost child. Those who came in for awards and honours in their exhibit will carry the memory of an accomplishment, and those who failed will think about how they can improve for next year by what they have seen.

Easy as pie! (pigeon)

"Easy as pie" (pigeon), too! Seems the whole bag was accounted for, while half an hour ago as well. Too bad about the pigeons, but they've been created, a problem up and down the fair. Pigeons - you might say they were missing about.

Cisco draws for Cisco

The draw for the pony and saddle was won by four-year-old Freddie Jones of Glenora. Freddie was not in the audience at the time, so he arrived first thing Saturday morning to pick up his Cisco Kid, Duncan Renaldo, pony.

Fire near house, firemen halt it

Lindsay firemen arrived at the scene of a grade five fire near the school building on Saturday morning. The fire was quickly brought under control by the firemen.

Firemen received the call to the farm of Thomas H. Reed, who had a lot of occasion to of the town at 3:10 p.m. The grass fire was reported to be about 100 feet long and 10 feet wide. The fire was quickly brought under control by the firemen.

Here's an attractive picture of Cisco Kid in Lindsay surroundings - the centre of attraction for young ones. Cisco made a two-day appearance at Lindsay to the delight of his fans. Follows his appearance, Cisco autographed a large number of pictures and scraps of paper for collectors.
